ABOUT OUR PRODUCTS

When using a CELMAR product, you can rest assured that you have purchased one of the best products known to this market.

All materials used in our manufacturing process is subject to the most stringent specifications. Our emphasis is on strength, uniformity and over-all quality control.

Sophisticated modern technology allows us to offer maximum durability, consistency and quality surface finishes.

This is achieved by using our specially designed machine that measures the amounts of raw materials that go into our cement-mixture to the exact prescribed specifications.

There is no 'hand-mixing' factor which could result in inferior products or texture, colour or strength inconsistencies.

In the manufacturing process of a coloured product, oxide is added to the concrete mixture before casting. This ensures that the product is coloured through-out. The result is a much more durable finish than would be achieved when applying a layer of colour pigment to a completed cement product.
